Dear Mr.Weisberg,

Thank you for another entertaining letter; at least the correspondence is contributing to fresh understandings. I had no idea of the speed with which American publishers work until I learnt from John Sparrow that, following the publication of his article in the T.L.S., he was approached by an American publisher who, not only arranged to print the article as a booklet (the copyright remained John Sparrow's), but also arrange d to fly him to New York for publication day.

Later on this month I am publishing a reply to John Sparrow by Mark Lane. There is still time for you to send us a printable letter on this subject if you wish to compile one.

Yours sincerely,

Arthur Crook
